The third issue of the 13th volume (November-December 2012) offers six selected articles that result of the best philosophical inquiry developed in several and actual fields and submitted to the journal Filosofia Unisinos. The journal publishes them after, in most cases, an intense dialogue between peers and authors that has led to an enrichment of the final result. This process has been transformed into an academic space in itself, a privilege and opportunity of confrontation of ideas, perspectives and polishing of ideas that although the public doesn't see it, it is extremely fruitful for author and reader. We also offer three accurate bibliographic reviews.

We reinforce that the journal gives priority to papers submitted in English on account of the accessibility that this language favors, and the suggestion of sending book reviews of new sources. We want to thank very specially the work done by the referees.
