Filosofia Unisinos, journal of Philosophy, has been published regularly since 1999. Professor Luiz Rohden was the first editor and responsible for establishing the journal and for giving it a well-grounded reputation among the Brazilian philosophical community. Professor Alfredo Culleton took the job as editor in 2008 with the task to internationalize it. Since 2009, the journal has been published preferentially in English and has been indexed in the two most important databases for scientific publications in the world: Web of Science and Scopus.

Filosofia Unisinos still remains the only Philosophy journal published in Brazil which is indexed in those databases. As the new editor of this journal, I would like to thank those who preceded me for the laborious and remarkable job they have done. Their achievements deserve our sincere recognition. I can only hope to honor their legacy by given the best of my efforts to keep this journal open to well-argued and innovative contributions on relevant themes in Philosophy.
